

Faculty Development Programme at Dubai

A three day Faculty Development Programme (FDP) was organized by FORE School of Management from 14-16th December, 2010 at Dubai. Faculty members got an insight of contemporary pedagogical tools used for management education globally.

First day sessions were conducted by in-house faculty members. The objectives were to impart skills for teaching and writing of case-studies and preparing teaching notes. Interesting tools were used for making the sessions exciting and meaningful. Faculty were highly involved and showed great enthusiasm while learning. Kudos! to our in-house instructors for doing a great job.

Sessions on the second day were conducted by Dr. Jay Edwards, Murdoch University, Dubai campus. He assessed the leadership styles / abilities of the participants and inspired them to show a high degree of commitment for institution building. Exercise-based teaching was adopted to make the sessions participative and interesting. Dr. Edwards helped the participants to understand how they can maximize their potential utilizing available resources.

Third day was concluded with review of the sessions and taking feedbacks. Director, Dr. Jitendra K.Das gave his valuable inputs while summing up the sessions.

President Mr. R.C Sharma, who had initiated the 'Annual FDP – Abroad' inspired the faculty by emphasizing on excellence to take FSM to higher echelons of management education. He resolved to continue this wonderful tradition. The Program proved to be a great success. It not only enhanced faculty learning but also a time for bonding of the FORE faculty.
