Mr. Sam Pitroda, Advisor to the Prime Minister of India on Public Information Infrastructure and Innovations, graced the occasion as the Chief Guest.

The Board of Directors of FORE welcomed the guests to the 18th Annual Convocation and announced the information that over 99% students have been offered placements during the current year's campus placement. The highest package offered was Rs. 13 lacs per annum while the average package was approx. Rs. 7 lacs per annum. Besides the regular recruiters the year saw entry of 27 new recruiters, such as, the Deutsche Bank, GMR Group, Havells, Jindal Steel, Lakme, Moser Baer, Sony, TATA Steel, etc. Lifestyle (Dubai) also visited our campus and offered international placement to our students.

Mr. R.P. Billimoria, President Emeritus-FORE, in his welcome address highlighted the academic and professional achievements of the Chief Guest. He termed the passing out students as freshly minted jewels of FORE.

Mr. R.C. Sharma, President- FORE, while showering his blessings on the students, advised them on the importance of ethics in their personal and professional life. He gave them a choice of leading a happy and enjoyable life vs. a deceptive and stressful life.

The Director-FORE, Dr. Jitendra K. Das, presented the activity report card for the institute for the year 2010-11. Apart from dwelling on the research output by the faculty and the laurels earned by FORE students at various forums, he emphasized on how FORE was entering a new phase of growth by going international. He informed about the various MOUs which FORE has signed with international universities and the future plans of making FORE a multi-campus institute of high repute. He also exhorted students to seek knowledge and perfection in all that they do. The accolades and success will automatically follow.

In his very inspiring speech to the graduating students,

Mr. Sam Pitroda portrayed his own journey from a tribal village to US & UK and his achievements as an entrepreneur in the Telecom industry. He also highlighted the importance of information sharing. Finally, he advised the future managers to look after themselves first so that they can take care of the society and nation afterwards.

The convocation ended with the students high on excitement and charged with the confidence of excelling for themselves and the country in their field of choice.
